IT IS ME

Neville Buchanan

I love that old Gospel Song, It's me it's me O Lord Standing in the need of prayer ... Not my brother not my sister ... Not the preacher not the deacon ... Not my father not my mother ... But it is me O Lord standing in the need of prayer.

It is so easy to project onto someone else and not to take ownership of my sin. During the Great Smoky Mountains Marriage Retreat I was exposed to an enlightening statement on what happens when I don't own my bad choices:

*An act contrary to what I feel I should do for another is called an act of self-betrayal. When I betray myself, I begin to see the world in a way that justifies myself betrayal. When I see the world in a self-justifying way, my view of reality becomes distorted (Arbinger institute).

A good illustration of this is Mary and Martha. Mary is sitting at the feet of Jesus enjoying a spiritual feast from "The Word". Martha is in the kitchen serving. But she gets distracted because of stinking thinking. Maybe she thought: "Why, that lazy sister of mine, is so selfish. She never considers me. She always takes advantage of me." It is so easy to slip into feeling like the victim. But it is self-deception that leads to bitterness.

*Friend, stop confessing other people's sins (blaming and playing the victim). Instead, go to God in prayer and tell Him, "It's me it's me O Lord Standing in the need of prayer". t.ly/rwOw

FORGIVENESS

Robert Murphy

Should we forgive people only if they ask for forgiveness? For instance, if someone intentionally set out to hurt me by hurting my dog, should I forgive them for their sin even though they do not show remorse? While we certainly cannot have the same reaction as John Wick, I've heard many Christians agree that we are under no obligation to forgive sins without their repentance. God only forgives sinners when they ask for forgiveness, so why would he expect us to do something that he himself does not do!?

However, the Bible teaches that this line of reasoning is incorrect. There are examples of Christians having a forgiving spirit toward others even though the sinners themselves did not ask for forgiveness. One such example is Stephen. After he stands up to the Sanhedrin council, he is stoned for blasphemy by the antagonistic Jews. His final words as he was being crushed under the weight of their hatred was, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them!" (Acts 7:60). We see a similar example from Christ himself while he is on the cross. He prays that God may forgive them of this misdeed, "Father, forgive them; for they do not know what they are doing." (Luke 23:34).

Finally, if we do not forgive others who have sinned against us, our heart will grow farther from God. If we do not forgive others of their transgressions, God will not forgive us of ours (Matt 6:14-15).

TESTING MY FAITH

Nancy Carnes

Lately we've had some sad things and mishaps occurring one after another. I know this happens to everyone sooner or later, but when it happens to me, I tend to feel sorry for myself. I start to question why. Is it something I've done or not done? When I mentioned this to my sister, she said she looked at it as a testing of our faith. I told her, in that case, I was failing. Instead of looking at the blessings I have, or how these trials would make my faith stronger, I find myself whining about my problems. Even though I thank God every day for my blessings, I wonder if I'm really thankful or they're just empty words. But when I stop and think about what we have going on it seems very small compared to what others are facing. I should be praying about it, praising God, and thanking him for everything- not just the good things.

James 1:2-3, "Consider it pure joy my brothers and sisters whenever you face trials of many kinds because you know that the testing of your faith produces perseverance..."

1 Thessalonians 5:16-18, "Rejoice always, pray continually, give thanks in all circumstances for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

News, Notes & Announcements...

MONTHLY FELLOWSHIP MEAL TODAY

Please join us. Everyone is welcome!

ATTENTION LADIES

We will have a batch cooking event here at the building on Friday, March 11th at 6:30 PM. Our plan is to put together casseroles, freeze them, and have them ready to share with anyone in need of a meal. Please let Laura Doerr know if you are attending (live, text or email). Once we have a rough attendance count, we will share details of what ingredients you can bring to contribute to the meal. We hope you will join us for a fun night of fellowship and service.
